LAMANITES. THE.

The people who, in connection with their kindred, the Nephrites, occupied the American continent from about B. C. 590 to A. C. 385, in which latter year they destroyed the Nephrites and remained possess-ors of the entire land. The American Indians are thir degraded descendants. These people were of the bar with and the more than the formation of the second Hebrew origin, and are called Lamanites, from La-man, the eldest son of Lebi, who was the leading spirit in the events that led to their separation from the Nephites and their formation as a distinct people. Originally, the Lamanites were the children of Lo-man, Lemnel, and some of the family of Ishmael; but as the centuries passed there were many defections in both nations, when the dissatisfied would join the opposing race and affiliate and intermix with them, so that the two names at last became more an indication of religion and civilization than of birth.

NEPHI.

MEPHI. The son of Lehi, One of the most conspicuous characters in the bistory of God's Church, a great prophet, teacher and leader, and the father of the Nephite race. He left Jernsalem for the promised land (America) with his father's family B. C. 600, and, by reason of his father, zeal and faithfulness, he soon became the actual leader of the colony. After his father's death, when the two parties divided. Nephi ied his followers to a new home, where also be became their king and high priest, and where also he became their king and high priest, and where also he built a temple.
